The Tuscan College of Engineers (Collegio degli Ingegneri della Toscana), founded in 1876, is a non-profit cultural Association created for the purpose of disseminating technical-scientific knowledge in the field of engineering and architecture. These aims are achieved by means of conferences, debates, seminars, courses and other pertinent activities.

The Association acts through the subsidiary company Alter Ego Ing Arch s.r.l. It publishes the "bollettino ingegneri", a monthly magazine on engineering and architecture which was founded in 1953 and which publishes original scientific and technical articles, the reference price list for building activities and a guide of building categories and codes.
